The screenshot shows a Zoom meeting interface. The main content is a slide titled "WHY STIGMA AGAINST COVID". The slide is divided into three sections: "WHY STIGMA AGAINST COVID", "WHAT STIGMA DOES TO INDIVIDUALS", and "WHAT CAN BE DONE". The "WHAT CAN BE DONE" section is further divided into two columns of bullet points. On the right side of the slide, there is an illustration of a woman with her head down, being pointed at by two hands. The Zoom interface shows the presenter's name as "Brahma Choudhuri" and the time as 12:14 PM. There are also icons for recording and live status.

WHY STIGMA AGAINST COVID

- It's a new disease with many unknowns
- Anxiety, confusion and fear among public
- These factors fuelling harmful stereotypes

WHAT STIGMA DOES TO INDIVIDUALS

- Drives public to hide their illness to avoid discrimination
- Prevents people from seeking healthcare immediately
- Discourages them from adopting healthy behaviour

WHAT CAN BE DONE

Do not harass, abuse, hurt or harm anyone with Covid-19

- Not all who cough or sneeze have Covid-19
- Face fears and anxiety with facts, not discrimination
- Despite reservations, if anybody it's not their fault
- Stay positive and take care of mental health
- Do not stigmatise people in home quarantine
- Remember, Covid-19 will heal but stigma and mental trauma left behind, won't

"Drive to Eradication of Parthenium-2022"

Organized by NSS Unit I & II in collaboration with Green Club and Department of Botany, Narajole Raj College.

Venue: Narajole Raj College

Date: 29/06/2022

Parthenium hysterophorus L., commonly known as carrot weed or congress grass in India has been considered as one of the worst weeds responsible for causing health problems in men and animals besides loss to crop productivity and plant biodiversity. The weed has infested about 35 million hectares of land in India since its first notice in 1955. Now it has become one of the main weeds in almost all types of agricultural lands besides infesting wasteland, community land, road and railway track sides and forests. So proper management of parthenium is required to make men and animal from its harmful effect. Narajole Raj College NSS Unit- I & II in collaboration with Nij-Narajole Gram Panchayet, organises "Drive to Eradication of Parthenium-2022" on 29th June 2022 to control and reduce the growth of Parthenium inside and beside college campus. The Green club and department of Botany of Narajole Raj College have also made significant contribution in this program. The awareness was created among farmers, local people, students, and all the staff of Narajole Raj College with given detail knowledge regarding parthenium control eg. Making compost, history of parthenium, herbicides spraying, and releasing Mexican beetles by Green club and department of Botany of Narajole Raj College. NSS volunteers of both Unit-I & II actively participated in this programme under the instruction of Programme officer Anustup Chattopadhyay and Dr. Sk Mohammad Aziz of to make the event successful. They have done parthenium uprooting beside the campus roads and extended the cleaning up to Madanmoon bus stop. During the whole process of the programme they took proper safety by wearing mask, gloves, cap etc.

Summary report of Joint Forest management in southwest Bengal

Rationale of the webinar- Trees and forests are very important for the long survival of the civilization. They supply oxygen for the living World. On the other hand, deforestation was done to build civilized towns and cities for sake of the interest of the people. That trend still continues. The seminar was organized for the awareness of the people that we have to maintain forest now to make the World a good habitat of the living being.

Plan of Work- Members of the Green Club met on 17.11.2021 through online mode to discuss the above issue and decided to organize a webinar. The convenor was interested to contact a resource person to discuss in the seminar with students, faculties, staffs and village people. It was decided in the meeting to organize the seminar within the month.

Schedule of the webinar- Dr. Tridib Kumar Sahoo was invited as a resource person and he agreed to deliver a speech on 28.11.2021 through online mode. On that day our technical committee created the link and invited all concern to join. At first, Prof. Arpita Chakraborty, convenor of Green Club introduced the resource person. At 4pm Dr. Tridib Kumar Sahoo started his deliberation. His deliberation was magnificent and ended after one hour. Dr. Tanuka Acharya, HOD, department of Philosophy gave vote of thanks to all dignitaries.

Brief bio-data of the resource person- Dr. Tridib Kumar Sahoo is an eminent professor of botany. He works as an assistant Professor in Tamralipta Mahavidyalaya in the department of botany.

Outcome of the webinar- The webinar was able to make the audience aware about the importance of the green trees and forests, ill effects of deforestation and importance of plantation.

Participants' feedback- All the audience particularly the students mesmerized while deliberation was going on. The deliberation was able to make them curious on the issue which was important for their grooming.

1. Fundamentals of Computer

a. Introduction: The term 'Computer' is derived from the Latin word 'Computar' which means to calculate.

- C = Commonly
- O = Oriented
- M = Machine
- P = Properly
- U = Used for
- T = Training
- E = Education
- R = Research

Computer is an electronic machine, that process the input data according to the given instruction & gives output as a result. It also saves the result for future use.

b. Input / Output & Processing of the Computer:

INPUT DEVICES

- Keyboard
- Mouse
- Scanner
- Digital Camera
- Joystick
- Pen drive

OUTPUT DEVICES

- Monitor
- Printer
- Plotter

>>> Central Processing Unit<<<<

PROCESSING OF THE COMPUTER: (CPU)

The most essential part of the computer that perform the various operations provided. It is also called the brain of the computer. It is mainly divided into three categories:

- Arithmetic & logic Unit: It performs all arithmetical as well as logical operations such as addition, subtraction, multiplication & division. Also it performs the comparison between the entities & thus help in decision making to the computer.
- Control Unit: It controls the flow of instruction within the system. CU gets the program instruction from memory & executes them one after another.
- Memory Unit: It saves the instructions that are being executed for the future use. Each instruction takes certain memory for its proper execution.

Components of the CPU

- Motherboard
- Hard disk
- RAM
- ROM
- Processor
- SMPS & Connecting wire
- UPS
- DVD/CD R-W
- Floppy Drive
- Modem
- Graphics Card
- Sound Card

c. Memory Device

→ The storing capacity of computer expressed in bytes. Bytes store one character of data.

0.1	1 bit
4 bits	1 nibble
8 bits	1 byte
1 byte	1 character
1024 bytes	1 Kilobyte (KB)
1024 KB	1 Megabyte (MB)
1024 MB	1 Gigabyte (GB)
1024 GB	1 Terabyte (TB)

There are mainly two types of memory:

Primary Memory: This is the main memory of the computer. This memory is used frequently by the CPU for execution of the instructions. There are again two types of Primary Memory.

RAM: RAM stands for Random Access Memory. Initially every task is stored in RAM & then executed or stored in Hard disk. It is volatile, it stores data temporarily. So no data will remain when the power is switched off. It ranges from 64 MB to 16 GB.

ROM: ROM stands for Read Only Memory. It is a programming chip, where all the system information are recorded & can't be changed. Its types are PROM, EPROM, EEPROM, etc. It is non-volatile.

Secondary Memory: These are the storage devices & are used to save the programs files permanently. There are different types of Secondary Memory. They are:

- ☞ Hard disk (ranges from 40 GB to 1 TB)
- ☞ Floppy disk (1.44 MB)
- ☞ CD (720MB), DVD (4.7 GB, 8.5 GB)
- ☞ Blue ray Disc (25 GB, 40 GB)
- ☞ Pen Drive (ranges from 128 MB to 256 GB) Magnetic Tapes, Zip disk, etc.

d.Types of Computers:

ON THE BASIS OF WORKING:

- ✓ Analog computer
- ✓ Digital computer
- ✓ Hybrid computer (Digital + Analog)

ON THE BASIS OF SIZE:

- ✓ Mainframe computer
- ✓ Mini computer
- ✓ Super computer
- ✓ Work station
- ✓ Micro computer
  - Desktop computer
  - Laptop computer
  - Palmtop computer
- ✓ Network computer

ON THE BASIS OF BRAND:

- ✓ IBM PC
- ✓ IBM compatible
- ✓ Apple/ Macintosh

ON THE BASIS OF PROCESSING:

- ✓ XTI 8086 & 8088 processor

- ✓ AT 286
- ✓ AT 386
- ✓ AT 486
- ✓ Pentium I, II, III, IV

e.Characteristics of Computer:

→ SPEED AND ACCURACY

Computer performs complex calculation at a very high speed. Computer takes a few micro/nano second to execute an operation.

Fraction of a second:

1 millisecond= 1/1000 of second

1microsecond= 1/1000000 of a second

1 nanosecond= 1/000000000 of a second

1 Pico second= 1/1000000000000 of a second

Computer always gives 100% actual outputs (result), if the user provides correct Input and Instructions .If any mistake occurs in any calculation they are due to manual error but not of computer. Since it is 100% accurate, it is reliable.

→ STORAGE

Computer can store a huge amount of data for the future use in auxiliary device like floppy disk, hard disk or compact disk. The storing capacity of computer is expressed in bytes. Normally one byte stores one character of data.

0,1	1 bit
4 bits	1 nibble
8 bits	1 byte
1 byte	1 character
1024 bytes	1 Kilobyte (KB)
1024 KB	1 Megabyte (MB)
1024 MB	1 Gigabyte (GB)
1024 GB	1 Terabyte (TB)

→ VERSITALITY:

Computers are being used in different fields such as offices, school, hospital, etc. to perform various tasks. Versatile means ability to perform various tasks & computer can capable to do so. A computer can process any kind of data.

→ DILLIGENCE:

It is a capacity of performing repeated operation without any tiredness & any mistakes. A computer is capable of performing the required tasks continuously with the same speed, accuracy & efficiency without any error.

f. HISTORY & GENERATION OF COMPUTER

It took thousands of years for the computer to develop in to the present state. Earlier the process of computing was done by counting with their own figures, stones & through scratches on the sand or walls. But this idea is only for the counting of small entities. So later, various types of computing devices such as ABACUS, Napier's bone slide rule, difference engine, lady Augusta Ada Lovelace, etc. On the processing of previous calculating machines & continuous development on them, makes modern computer come to this stage.

Generations of Computer

→ First generation of computer (1946 to 1958)

- i. Vacuum tubes are used to electronic circuit
- ii. Storage capacity was limited (1kb to 4kb)
- iii. Slow processing (millisecond)
- iv. High voltage needed up to 150000 volts.
- v. large in size (5100<sup>2</sup> feet)

→ 2nd generation of computer (1959 to 1964)

- i. Transistor were used
- ii. processing speed was faster
- iii. Smaller in size(51<sup>2</sup> feet)
- iv. Input and output device were faster

→ 3rd generation of computer (1965 to 1974)

- i. ICs were used in place of transistor

ii. processing speed is faster than second generation

iii. minicomputer were in produced during this generation

iv. Storage capacity in measured in mega byte.

→ 4th generation of computer (1975 to 1990)

- i. VLSI and micro processor are used
- ii. processing speed is very high Giga bytes
- iii. very smaller size
- iv. input and output devices were versatile

→ 5th generation of computer (1990 to incomplete...)

- i. Intelligent processing
- ii. Easy human computing
- iii. computer will understand natural language
- iv. They have artificial intelligence.

g. Applications Of Computer:

Outcomes:

We visited 100 families in Dubrajpur Gram of Paschim Medinipur District of West Bengal. We had conducted our survey by questionnaire method with the members of the family to know about their diet. Though the participation in the survey is entirely voluntary, they were actively participated and also informed all about their diet. This survey showed that intervention programmes have some potential benefits and provide good insights for an up scaling intervention programme at a larger scale. The current study showed a reduction in energy in every family after a week intervention. We have also seen the reduction of carbohydrate and protein intakes in many families. Although the magnitude of reduction was small and insignificant at this time, this could potentially have an accumulative effect on reducing these dietary intakes under a more extended intervention period. This study found that there was many members suffering from many disorders and taking some medicines. Some have blood sugar and blood cholesterol and others have thyroid problems, gastric problems, osteoporosis, heart disease, and kidney disease. There were many women with anaemia. Some members have bad habits like smoking and drinking alcohol.

Head master and Teacher in Charge have never received any complaints of children's health problems due to mid-day meal scheme in the school. Head master and Teacher in Charge have suggested that the fund provided for mid-day meal scheme should increase for improving the nutritional status. The Government should recruit a clerk for this scheme. Students have participated mid-day meal in the school every day. The kitchen store is clean and adequate for cooking. Students wash their hands with soap before taking the mid-day meal. Students feel full stomach after mid-day meal.

The enrolment is now near universal but the learning outcomes are still far from satisfactory.

2. Sanitation Facilities: Efforts should be made to provide adequate sanitation facilities to households, including the construction of toilets and promoting hygienic practices to discourage open defecation.

3. Community Engagement: Engaging the community through awareness campaigns and educational programs can help foster a sense of responsibility towards maintaining clean water sources and proper sanitation practices.

4. Government Support: Collaboration with government agencies and NGOs is essential to provide financial and technical support for implementing sustainable solutions to address the challenges identified in the survey.

Conclusion:

Extension Program: Visit to villages to generate awareness about plant conservation

Organized by Department of Botany
In collaboration with
IQAC, Narajole Raj College

The Department of Botany of Narajole Raj College planned for an extension program to visit to the five villages adjoining the Narajole Raj college, under the Nij Narajole Gram Panchayat, in order to generate awareness about the plant conservation. The departmental students along with the teachers formed a team to converse with the local inhabitants of the villages to generate awareness regarding conservation of plants.

Necessity of the Extension program:

With the advent of the modern technology and modern culture, the traditional knowledge is vanishing at a very fast rate. Hence, a general awareness regarding the traditional use of the medicinal plants should be created among the general public of the villagers so that these traditional knowledges of plant use and their conservation are transferred from one generation to other.

Date of activity: 12/04/2023, 19/05/2023, 23/05/2024, 16/06/2023

Name of the teachers' participated: Prof. Nandita Bhakat, Prof. Sanjay Kumar Datta, Dr. Uttam Kumar Kanp, Dr. Prithwi Ghosh, Dr. Arpita Chakraborty, Prof. Bangomoti Hansda and Sk. Ashiruddin Chisti.

Name of the students participated:

Indu Rani Bhunia, Ananya Bera, Arupriya Sigha, Aupam Nayek, Koyel Mondal, Rakesh Dolai, Susova Samata and Ritu Modal

Outcomes:

Nij Narajole, Drubrajpur, Kalyanpur, Narajole, and Singhaghai were the five villages that were visited. We had a detailed discussion with the locals about the therapeutic use of several plants that grow nearby, including climbers, shrubs, trees, and herbs. They were also informed about the dosage of the components utilized. The common folk living in the villages were also informed about the uncommon and endangered flora in their environs. It was proposed that conversations be held about their prudent use as therapeutic plants and how to preserve them by growing an increasing number of these plants. There were discussions about the several conservation approaches that can be used to save plants. The locals enthusiastically participated in the discussion

Extension Program

School Visits: Educating Students about Nutrition, Anemia and Albendazole

Organized by Department of Physiology

In collaboration with

IQAC, Narajole Raj College

Date of Extension Program: 24.08.2023

The Department of Physiology at Narajole Raj College organized an extension program under the Extension Activities Cell to visit two schools near Narajole Raj College, located within the Nij Narajole Gram Panchayat, to raise awareness about anaemia and Albendazole.

❖ Schools Visited for Awareness Program:

1. Vidyasagar Madhyamik sikhsha Kendra
2. Dubrajpur Prathamik Vidyalaya

❖ Teachers Participating in Awareness Program:

1. Dr. Parimal Dua
2. Prof. Suman Kalyan Khanra.

❖ Students Participating in Awareness Program:

1. Sabir Mallick, 2. Pabitra Dolai, 3. Anirban Dolai, 4. Somyadip Bhanji, 5. Aprajita Bhunia, 6. Jhuma Samanta

❖ The Significance of the Extension Program: Nutrition, Anaemia, and Albendazole Awareness:

1. Health Education: School children are at a critical stage of growth and development, making them particularly susceptible to the effects of poor nutrition and anemia. An extension program can provide them with essential knowledge about balanced diets, the importance of vitamins and minerals, and how these affect their physical and cognitive development.
2. Anemia Prevention and Management: Iron deficiency anemia is common among children, affecting their energy levels, concentration, and ability to learn. Educating school children about the causes of anemia, such as inadequate iron intake, and promoting iron-rich foods can help prevent and manage this condition effectively.

3. Deworming Awareness: Parasitic infections can hinder children's growth and development and affect their attendance and performance in school. Teaching children about the importance of albendazole and regular deworming can reduce the prevalence of parasitic infections, thereby improving overall health and school attendance.
4. Behavioral Change: Educating school children about nutrition, anemia, and albendazole not only benefits their immediate health but also instills lifelong habits. Children can become advocates for healthy eating and hygiene practices within their families and communities, creating a ripple effect that extends beyond the school environment.
5. Improved Academic Performance: Healthy children are more likely to attend school regularly and perform better academically. By addressing nutrition and health issues through an extension program, schools can contribute to creating an environment conducive to learning and achievement.
6. Community Impact: Engaging school children in health education initiatives can extend the reach of the program beyond the classroom. Children often share what they learn with their families, fostering community-wide awareness and behavioral change.
7. Long-term Benefits: Investing in the health of school children through targeted education programs can yield long-term benefits for society. Healthy children grow into healthy adults, contributing positively to their communities and economies.

In conclusion, an extension program focusing on nutrition, anemia, and albendazole for school children is significant because it addresses critical health issues during a formative stage of life, promotes positive health behaviors, enhances academic performance, and creates a foundation for healthier communities in the future.

❖ Outcomes of the Nutrition, Anaemia and Albendazole Awareness Program:

1. Improved Nutritional Knowledge: School children gain a better understanding of nutrition, including the importance of balanced diets, essential nutrients, and healthy eating habits. This knowledge empowers them to make informed food choices that support their growth and development.
2. Reduced Rates of Anemia: By educating children about the causes of anemia (such as iron deficiency) and promoting iron-rich foods and supplements like albendazole where necessary, the program can contribute to reducing the prevalence of anemia among school children.

3. Healthier School Environment: Schools implementing these programs often see improvements in overall health indicators among students. Reduced absenteeism due to illness and improved concentration and academic performance are common benefits observed when nutrition and health issues are addressed effectively.
4. Behavioral Change: The program encourages positive health behaviors among children, such as adopting healthier eating habits and practicing personal hygiene. These behaviors extend beyond the school environment, influencing families and communities as children share their knowledge and habits at home.
5. Empowerment and Advocacy: Educated children become advocates for health within their families and communities. They may actively promote healthy practices, such as deworming and proper nutrition, contributing to broader community health improvements.
6. Long-Term Health Impact: Addressing health issues during childhood sets a foundation for lifelong health. Children who learn about nutrition and health early are more likely to carry these habits into adulthood, reducing their risk of chronic diseases associated with poor nutrition and anemia.
7. Community Engagement: Extension programs often involve parents, teachers, and community leaders, fostering collaboration and community-wide support for health initiatives. This engagement strengthens the program's impact and sustainability.
8. Measurement of Impact: Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms within the program can track key health indicators such as anemia rates, nutritional status, and deworming coverage among school children. This data helps assess the program's effectiveness and informs adjustments to improve outcomes.

In summary, an extension program focusing on nutrition, anemia, and albendazole for school children can lead to tangible improvements in health outcomes, educational attainment, and community well-being. By equipping children with essential health knowledge and promoting healthy behaviors, these programs contribute to building healthier and more resilient communities for the future.

Awareness programme on 'Good touch' and 'Bad touch' at Singaghai
Primary School
_on 15.12.2023

We live in a world full of wrongdoers where cases or incidents of child abuse, molestation, rape, kidnaping etc crimes are rising. Being a parent, we always want our children to be protected and safe. However, most of the cases occur when a child or adolescent is closer to anyone within the family environment which includes relatives, family friends or outside the house like an educational centre. It becomes very hard for kids to bear and ask for assistance when an offender is trusted by family members. Keep this in mind, Gender Equity cell and Extension Services sub Committee, Narajole Raj College planned to launch an awareness programme on 'Good Touch and Bad touch' with the assistance of students of PG courses, Narajole Raj College.

Number of Participants: 6 (Student -4 & Faculty – 2)

Description of the activity: Students made poster presentation regarding the said issue and also made illustrations on the fact. The session was interactive.

Outcome: i. Interaction made with the beneficiaries.

The "Swachhata Hi Seva" - "Garbage Free India" campaign organized by Narajole Raj College on October 1st, 2023, was a truly transformative event. Prof. Asis Bhattacharya and Dr. Uttam Kumar Sinha, both esteemed scholars in the Sanskrit department, provided not only their expertise but also their dedication to the cause. The students from the NCC and NSS departments exhibited exceptional enthusiasm and teamwork, ensuring that the college and its surroundings were impeccably clean. The tree planting initiative was a symbol of hope for a greener future, reflecting the institution's commitment to sustainability.

Moreover, the outreach to the local community was a pivotal aspect of this campaign. By engaging with the residents and raising awareness about cleanliness and tree conservation, the event fostered a sense of collective responsibility. It was heartening to see the college generously donating trees, not only beautifying the area but also contributing to the environment's well-being. In sum, this campaign was a testament to the power of community involvement and environmental consciousness, setting a positive example for all.
